THE SALARY MUDDLE ONCE MORE

Wantland Says the Officials Must Take the Salaries Fixed by the Finance Committee or Walk Out.

The adjourned meeting of the city coup cil was held last evening, all the members, same Ewing and Karrick, being present. AN ADDITIONAL MOUNTED POLICEMAN.

Wantland offered a resolution providing for the appointment of an mounted policeman. Referred. A GOOD SUGGESTION.

Bell, Wantland and Heiss submitted a resolution instructing the heads of the dif-ferent departments to furnish a requisition to the city council for supplies needed in their departments in advance of purchase, designating the character of material wanted, amount needed and probable cost of the same; and be it further resolved, that the city council in its discretion refer said requisitions to its respective commit-tees, with the mayor associated, for pur-chase, and the bills submitted to same com-mittee, with the mayor associated, for ap-proval. Adopted.

Wantiand was in favor of the spirit of the resolution, but begged the question by saying that there were several points which needed some improvement. He thought it needed some improvement. He thought it should go over for a week or more. Simondi supported Wantland in his usual gallant style.

Horn thought the adoption of the resolution would prevent the extension of water mains, as many of the persons now apply-ing for the extension of water mains bought up the scrip and paid for it in that Wantland said it was not fair to extend water mains way out of town and then use the scrip to pay water rates in the heart of the city. A district system would remedy the evil.

Moran said $80,000 had been spent last year for water main extensions, and only $14,000 had come in. He wanted to know just where the city would be in a short time if this thing was to be kept up. Mains were now extended on the north bench, and the scrip bought up at 50 cents on the collection and paid over to the assessment and dollar and paid over to the assessor and collector of water rates in lieu of cash

Rich said the waterworks committee had been called out into 100-acre lucerne patches to lay water mains. When the committee asked where the streets were they were referred to a stake and told that that represented "Lincoln avenue" or "Garfield avenue." The scrip was then bought at half price by the banks and others and as a Regulative Randy Kuchen has moved to the bar and a set of the bar and a Wantland—He's not a sheep herder.

Wantland — Well, we must meet the Hardy—Wantland seems to have a particular spite against the minority, although they have not crossed him. The city ticular spite against the minority, although they have not crossed him. The city watermaster spends nearly $50,000 a year for the controlling of irrigation water, and he is the man who should look after it. Wantland had said much about retrenchment, and yet was introducing resolution after resolution, expending money for dezens of different purposes.

Rich—I am surprised that Wantland should want it to go out that the surrounding cañons are filled with rotten sheep. So far as City Creek cañon is concerned, this is not true. No matter what its condition had been in the past, it was now clean. Who do all these fine horses that are being fed by the city belong to! As I have been fed by the city belong to! As I have been told, they belong to the deputies of the watermaster, who are paid to look after these matters. There was too much loafing probably.

Wantland said the heavy item for con trolling irrigating water did not originate with the last council. He had no complaint to make against Hardy, and he was sorry he was in the minority. [Hillarity on the part of Rich, Folland, Moran, Hardy

The mayor took occasion to say that he thought someone who is familiar with the water rights of the city should be employed—if not now it would be necessary later on. The city had made contracts with the people of Sugar House ward which must be carried out.

The resolution was referred.

WANTLAND AGAIN.

Wantland offered this motion: That the city engineer be requested to report the estimated cost of viaducts suitable to accommodate traffic across the tracks of the Union Pacific at North Temple street, and across the tracks of the Rio Grande Western at Third South street.

Wantland—I will say for the benefit of these stuck on economy that this does not these stuck on economy that this does not mean the building of viaducts at once, but is merely to get an idea of the cost of the Moran-Well, the city engineer has all the work he can attend to now, and I move to lay the motion on the table for at least four weeks.

Bell supported Moran's motion.

Moran called for the ayes and nays, as he insisted that it was an expenditure of money.

The mayor ruled that there was no expenditure of money.

Bell wanted to know how long it was before such viaducts would be wanted. Wantland-At any time within the next few years.

Loufbourow came to Moran's rescue in calling the ayes and neys, and read the rule on the subject.

The motion was finally amended to include South Temple street, and then passed, Moran voting no. Simondi (surcastically)—Why den't you call for the ayes and nays?

THE SPRINKLING OURSTION. Beardsiey offered a resolution calling for bids for street sprinkling. Moran-I move that it lay over for a Beardsley-Why!

Moran-Because I believe I can save the Hardy presented the following:

The Saltair railway question came up again.

The mayor read the law on the subject, which provides that after an officer had been once installed his salary could not be changed—neither raised nor diminished. In his opinion the only way to reach the question desired was for the officers of the city to refund a portion of their salaries monthly or yearly, as the case may be.

Bell then moved that the council accept the report of the city attorney, and that the report of the finance committee be referred report of the finance committee be referred report of the finance committee be referred back to that committee.

Simondi thought the council had made a mistake, and it might as well acknowledge the corn and be done with it. There was no use of further dallying with the matter. The report went back to the committee on finance, and their gray matter will be stirred up in an endeavor to extricate the council from the plight in which it finds itself.

Wantiand onered the following:
Resolved. That the committee on ways and means be requested to consider and report a plan to eliminate (by the issue of five-year warrants or other method) the water serip now outstanding, in order that during the next four years the city may have the benefit of the cash
